Campaigning journalism

Participants were asked to what extent they agree with these statements:

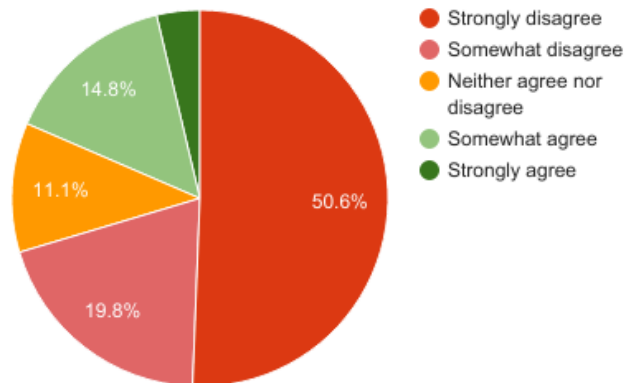

- That the Cable does push for political and policy changes.
- The Cable should push for political and policy changes.
- I think the Cable should only campaign on issues related to journalism, for example, releasing information.
- I think it's unnecessary for the Cable to formalise political positions.
- I would like to be consulted before the Cable undertakes to campaign on a particular topic.

On a scale of 1 (strongly disagree) – 5 (strongly agree).

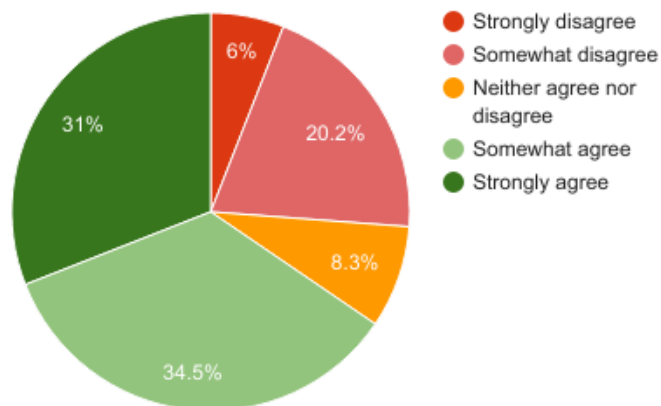

Here is a breakdown of the levels of agreement of the other statements.
